

Amy C. Johnson, MPAS, PA-C

Masters of Physician Assistant Studies

June 2013

Bachelor of Science, Food Science and Human Nutrition

May 2010

Aug. 2015 – Current

St Anthony's Emergency Department/Bayside Emergency Physicians- St Petersburg, FL

- Performs history, physical exam, diagnosis, treatment, and disposition of patients
- Provides comprehensive care in triage, fast track, and high acuity areas
- Performs laceration repair, incision and drainage, tonometry, slit lamp exam, wound care, pelvic exam
 - Provided outpatient primary care to complex patients including urgent care, management, preventative care, and hospital/ER follow-up visits
 - Performed comprehensive medical care including obtaining history, performing ordering diagnostic evaluations, diagnosis, and treatment
 - Collaborated daily with multi-disciplinary team including University of Florida on-site pharmacist, social worker, and nurses
 - Worked with underserved, low-socioeconomic population providing counseling
 - Supervised University of Florida medical students in the clinic setting

May 2010 – May 2011

UF Physicians/Shands Pediatric Specialties Clinic, Gainesville FL

- Obtained patient vitals, directed room flow, performed point-of-care testing
- Performed triage, diabetic testing, and office responsibilities for pediatric endocrinology clinic
- Assisted pediatric specialty physicians in the areas of endocrinology, hematology/oncology, genetics, gastroenterology, surgery, neurology, and nephrology

-

